

January Preview: Six Buzzed about Art Shows in NYC

By Sehba Mohammad on January 5, 2015

The holidays are a sluggish time for the art world but come January things speed up with the annual Outsider Art Fair exhibiting folk and self-taught artists and new, timely exhibits including Smack Mellon's group show about police brutality. Here are six not to miss shows this January.

Waiting: Selections from Erwin Olaf: Volume I & II

January 8 – February 28, 2015

Hasted Kraeutler

Keyhole 3, 2011

Internationally renowned Dutch photographer Erwin Olaf's new series "Waiting," continues his trademark, polished style fusing studio photography and photojournalism while exploring ambiguous themes such as the psychological state of waiting, the series includes a double channel video installation depicting two views of a woman seated in a restaurant silently waiting for someone, it shows her elegant poise slowly giving way to impatience.